Description:

Introducing the Expedition Overdrive Aluminum Clamshell Rooftop Tent - a tent that proudly boasts one of the sleekest profiles on the market. Crafted with a lightweight yet sturdy aluminum shell, this super low-profile clamshell tent guarantees exceptional performance. The innovative new design also maximizes interior space, providing you with ample room to relax.

Step inside, and you'll discover a well-organized interior featuring multiple side pockets and an overhead net for convenient storage. The fabric-lined ceiling adds a touch of comfort and luxury. Rest easy on the 6" thick memory foam mattress, ensuring a restful night's sleep no matter where your expedition takes you.

When it's time to pack up and move on, the elastic banding comes to the rescue, allowing you to fold the tent away quickly and efficiently. With Expedition Overdrive, adventure awaits without compromising on comfort and convenience.

The Expedition Overdrive Aluminum Rooftop Clamshell Tent is comparable to the CVT Mt. Hood Aluminum Hard Shell Rooftop Tent.

Expedition Overdrive Summary

Expedition Overdrive emerged as a startup driven by the conviction that the allure of overlanding should be within reach for all who harbor a passion for exploration. In the face of the recent surge in the costs associated with overlanding gear, the concept of affordability remains paramount. It was against this backdrop that Expedition Overdrive was born. Propelled by the ambition to provide top-tier overlanding equipment without the exorbitant price tags.

My personal pursuit of quality rooftop tents opened my eyes to the staggering prices dominating the market. This revelation propelled me on an odyssey that ultimately culminated in the inception of Expedition Overdrive. Presently, I have three distinct models of aluminum hardshell rooftop tents, with a host of new products poised to make their entrance in the near future.
